

MERA Pottery Studio

MERA pottery studio is open for potters to enjoy and learn in a co-operative milieu. We have 4 electric kick wheels made by Don Marshall, a slap roller, pug mill, and electric kiln. Space is limited - each pottery member has 1/2 of a shelf, and space on the drying racks. So it is very important to clean up after yourself, and to work with consideration to others.

Everyone using the studio must become a MERA member, have an orientation to the studio, and work with others in the studio, until they can work safely.

Pottery costs a yearly $50 studio fee for studio upkeep and $35 for each bag of clay. Each studio member is also responsible for a studio job. Or, you can pay an extra $50/month fee rather than taking on a monthly studio job, if you prefer.

Members of the studio work on individual and group projects. As part of our group work we hold workshops for area schools as requested during the school year, teaching them clay skills, and fire work for them.
